THANKS FOR THE MEMORIES

Tuesday, Nov.20 ... Old Trafford ... Man.Utd v Celtic ...

10 Years of Robbo

By Bryan Robson

I'll be the proudest man in Britain next Tuesday when Manchester United walk out with Celtic for a testimonial match to mark my ten seasons at Old Trafford.

Joining United is the confirmation for any player that he has reached the top of his profession. So it's a great thrill for me to see out a decade with the club.

I'm particularly grateful to Celtic for providing the opposition on what promises to be a special night.

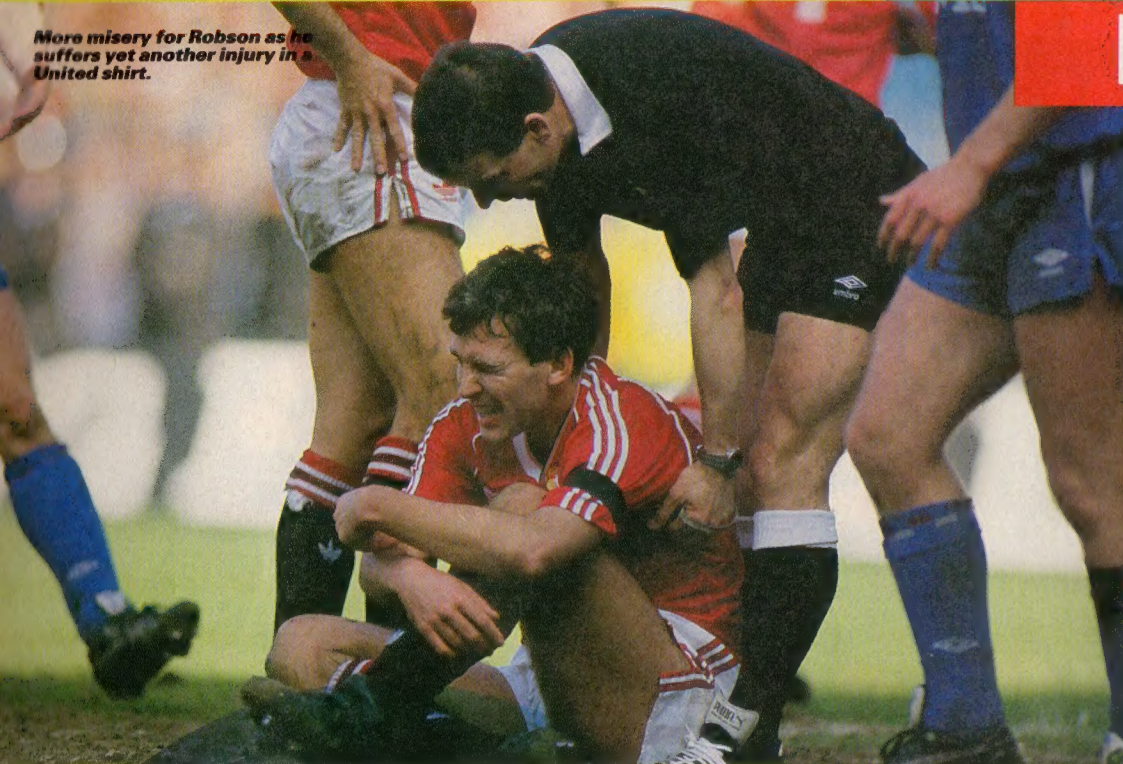

But if there are any nagging doubts about my injury, I'm afraid my role in the match will be strictly that of spectator.

After five months on the injury list, I'm back in training and running again. But a match between United and Celtic is certain to be a competitive affair, and even though it's a big night for me it could still be too much of a risk to play.

I'm a couple of weeks away from a First Division return and I don't want to rush into anything which could jeopardise that target.

But with or without me, next Tuesday will be a night I'll always remember. It's my chance to say 'thanks' to those United fans who have stuck by me throughout the years. You don't know how much that support means to me.

More misery for Robson as he suffers yet another injury in a United shirt.

Robson takes on Diego Maradona as United beat Barcelona in the 1984 Cup-Winners' Cup Quarter-Final at Old Trafford.

When I joined Ron Atkinson's Manchester United team from West Brom back in October, 1981, I was convinced it would only be a matter of time before I got my hands on the League Championship.

The fact that I have never achieved that ambition has got to rank as the biggest disappointment of my time at Old Trafford.

I was certain we were going to be Champions when we started the 1985-86 season with ten straight wins, but we collected so many injuries in our first 17 games unbeaten that we simply couldn't resist the inevitable Liverpool charge to the finishing line.

And talking of injuries, that has been the other great disappointment of my United years.

For I'm told that I have now been sidelined for more than 85 weeks during the past ten seasons and missed well over 100 matches for United because of a succession of injuries ranging from a dislocated shoulder to my current ruptured Achilles.

My best football for United has undoubtedly come in the seasons when I've been relatively free of injuries.

In my first three years at the club I rarely missed a match and felt in great nick. And when I got another uninterrupted run going in 1988, I was again putting in some of the best performances of my life.

Now I'm just a couple of weeks away from yet another return to duty, although I must have made more comeback performances than Frank Sinatra over the years.

Yet even at the age of 33, I believe that given a decent run in the side I could still help United chase Liverpool for that elusive title.

My biggest fear when I picked up my latest injury was that I would miss out on United's return to European action.

So I'm delighted that the lads have successfully guided us through the first two rounds of the Cup-Winners' Cup and into next March's Quarter-Finals.

For it was a Cup-Winners' Cup Quarter-Final against Barcelona in 1984 which provided me with the highlight of my United career so far.

I'll never forget the atmosphere at Old Trafford that night as we overturned a 2-0 first-leg deficit to go through 3-2 on aggregate. The noise from the Stretford End as that third goal went in will live with me forever.

Lifting the FA Cup on three occasions have also provided me with some very special memories, as well as the only medals of my career.

People automatically assume that the first win, against Brighton in 1983, meant the most to me. But last season's defeat of Crystal Palace was the special one because of all the criticism the team had taken in the previous months.

Now we're in the last eight of the Cup-Winners' Cup and the last 16 of the Rumbelows Cup and I really believe I could end my testimonial season with another winners' medal.

That would be a great way to celebrate 10 years at United.

I've probably seen more than a hundred players come and go in my time at Old Trafford, and though the club has never been afraid to go into the transfer market I don't think they'll ever manage a better deal than the one Ron Atkinson pulled off when he signed Paul McGrath for just £30,000.

If it wasn't for his recurring knee problems, Paul would have been one of the best players in the entire world.

As a defender, he was virtually unbeatable. Speed, aerial power, tough in the tackle and as hard as nails. He had the lot.

And the same was true of Norman Whiteside, who would have been a world beater but for the injuries he's suffered as a legacy of a cartilage operation he underwent as a 16-year-old.

W U N Z H X OF THE ROAD

Seasoned travellers Torquay are taking one of the longest routes ever out of the Fourth Division wilderness.

From their soccer outpost on the coast of darkest Devon The Gulls have clocked up something in the region of 250,000 road miles in their 19-year bid to escape the clutches of Division Four.

But this season, as they sit proudly at the top of the table, the Torquay coach will hopefully complete the last lap of an arduous journey to the Third Division.

No other club in the Football League travels further than the road-weary warriors from Plainmoor whose 'local derby' isn't even in the same country!

Their shortest away trip across the Welsh border to Cardiff adds another 288 miles to the clock – and a few hundred pounds more to the club's travel bill which will stand at £25,000 by the end of the season.

Worst journey of all is the 756-mile round trip which takes them from one end of the country to the other for the 'glamour' fixture against Carlisle.

All in all it's a tough programme which, inevitably, takes its toll on the resolve and resources of players and club.

As secretary David Turner explains: "Not only are all these long journeys very tiring for the players, they also put quite a strain on our limited financial resources.

"Travelling expenses, coupled with the cost of the necessary overnight stays, will run into something like £25,000. For a club like our's that is an horrendous figure – the equivalent of what we can expect to take through the turnstiles in three home matches.

"Carlisle is a nightmare journey for us and means we don't arrive back in Torquay until the early hours of Sunday morning."

Away day trips on a good day can be tiresome, but even more so when roadworks and other traffic hold-ups add hours to journeys which have long exhausted the card-school kings, bookworms and video freaks.

"Earlier this season," Mr Turner recalls, "We left for Rochdale at 12.30 pm on Friday lunch-time for a journey which should have taken something like four and a half hours. We reached our destination at 10.30pm!

"The unfortunate thing is that the Fourth Division is made up of so many Northern clubs, so that's another incentive for us to win promotion this season."

Tynan in the thick of the goalmouth action as usual.

TORQUAY TAKE THE LONG ROUTE TO THE TOP

Tommy draws a blank on this occasion against York.

TYNAN WEARY

but Tommy's still going strong

WHEN it comes to scoring goals old father Tynan is the daddy of them all – and the evergreen striker is still rolling along. On Saturday, Tommy Tynan celebrates his 35th birthday, just three weeks after a celebration of a different kind.

It was on October 27 that his double blast in Torquay's 3-0 victory over Carlisle took his career goal tally through the 300 barrier for all competitions.

The 250-League goal mark is just around the corner and Tynan doesn't intend the success story to end there.

"After this season I'll probably play for one more year so, hopefully, there are few more goals to come yet," says the much-travelled striker.

"By the end of October I'd got ten goals which, for me, is something of a flying start. If I can keep that going and help Torquay win promotion I'll be more than happy."

Tynan joined Torquay in the summer when he was given a free transfer by Plymouth and he's already taking his first steps up the managerial ladder in his role as player-coach.

"I would have loved another year at Plymouth but it wasn't to be and I had no choice but to accept a free," he says. "But the move to Torquay has worked out well for me.

"I'm playing more games than ever in the Fourth Division and the legs are getting a bit weary these days but when we play on a Friday it means I've got the weekend to recover," he smiles.

"Dave Smith has got a useful side together down here and I'm enjoying playing in an attack-minded team which creates so many chances. Promotion is there if we want it badly enough."

BE SERIOUS!

BUDGIE'S NO CLOWN

Newcastle goalkeeper John Burridge has turned down the kind of football fortune now being earned by Paul Gascoigne by refusing to act the clown.

Perfectionist Burridge, who celebrates his 39th birthday next month, reveals: "When I was at Crystal Palace ten years ago I got a lot of publicity for my pre-match warm-up routine.

"I was going to gymnastic school at the time and before games I'd go through a routine involving somersaults and walking on my hands.

"Terry Venables loved that kind of thing and would always get the TV cameras to focus in on me. But though people thought I was just clowning about, I was deadly serious.

"Terry tried to make me into a character like Gazza, but I wasn't interested. I just wanted to have a good game and get off home to the missus. "I could have milked it and made a lot of money out of it all, but I didn't want to know.

'Dedicated'

"Even now I hate it when people call me a 'character'. I'm a very dedicated professional."

In fact Budgie is such a perfectionist that he is prepared to go to extraordinary lengths to prolong his career.

Tee-total and a non-smoker, he puts in more training than anybody else at St James Park.

Then when he goes home he'll study videos of matches, sleep, check out his diet and play hypnotic tapes to help him relax.

He also studies body-building magazines and even eats baby food for extra carbohydrates!

"I'm stronger, hungrier and fitter than I've ever been," claims the star who's also seen action with Workington, Blackpool, Aston Villa, Southend, Palace, QPR, Wolves, Derby, Sheffield United and Southampton in a remarkable 23-year career.

"I'm a loner. I know how to Yet Budgie admits he came very near to quitting in the summer over the row that saw Sunderland promoted to the First Division in spite of finishing six points behind Newcastle in the table.

Sunderland sneaked in by the back door after beating third-placed Newcastle in the Play-Offs before losing to disgraced Swindon in the final.

"How Sunderland won promotion on one game was ludicrous," Burridge continues. "I couldn't believe it. I still don't know how we didn't go up when Swindon were booted out.

"It was the biggest disappointment of my career and it made me feel I'd had enough. I was ready to retire as a protest over the decision.

"But then I went on holiday and had a rethink. The truth is that I live for football and couldn't give it up."

"Nothing in football frightens me any more and I go into each game looking forward to giving a great performance."

Hazard comes clean...

NO MORE EXCUSES

Micky Hazard hasn't always seen eye to eye with managers and coaches but as he revels in the freedom of life under Ossie Ardiles he confesses: "There can be no excuses now."

Hazard's rare talent has never been called into question, but a so-called attitude problem has left former bosses exasperated - not least Chelsea chief Bobby Campbell.

"He used to tell me I was one of the most talented players he had worked with," recalls the mercurial midfielder. "But he reckoned I had a brain problem. I had never thought of it that way but maybe he was right."

"Thinking back there were times when I was having a successful run in the team and, for no apparent reason, I would and, even after going our separate ways after Spurs, we remained good friends and Ossie has always been the one I'd turn to for advice," says the enigmatic Geordie.

"When I had talks with him prior to signing for Swindon it was a sheer delight to hear him say things like 'I just want you to go out and play to your strengths, express yourself'."

"By giving me the licence to play the way I want to play - the way he wants me to - Ossie has taken away the excuses I might have been looking for under previous managers."

"I can no longer turn round and say 'the manager doesn't like me' or blame politics for my not being in the side. I'm the type of player Ossie likes and if I don't make the most of this chance it will be nobody's fault but my own."

Hazard quickly settled

'If I don't do it for Ossie, it will be all my own fault'

relax. In the middle of a hot streak I'd become lacksadaisical.

"I never realised I was doing it and when, suddenly, I was dropped I'd feel hard done by. The scapegoat again."

"At Chelsea, in particular, I felt there was a lot of politics involved in whether I was picked or not and I was often left disappointed with the treatment I got. But now I can see I wasn't completely blameless."

"The annoying part about it is that if, together, we could have got to grips with the problem I would have been a great success for Chelsea. They had a potential match winner in their grasp and let him slip. I let it slip too."

After a brief flirtation with consistency at Portsmouth, Hazard now has the ideal opportunity to put all his troubles behind him.

For if he can't do the business for Ossie Ardiles and Swindon, he won't do it for anybody.

"He has had the greatest influence on me during my career into the Swindon side ('my team-mates gave me so much of the ball I was knackered after an hour') but an ankle injury in only his fifth game brought him crashing down to earth."

Injuries have played a part in holding back the career of a gifted individual who should have graced the international stage and Hazard laments: "I'm not saying I WOULD have been a Gazza, but I SHOULD have achieved more."

"It would be easy to blame injuries for my not playing for England or winning more honours but, by the same token, I have to say I didn't make the most of the times when I was fit."

"I'm coming up to 31 now so I haven't too many years left in me. My ambition now is to get Swindon and Mick Hazard into the First Division where we belong."

RELAX ROBSON

Your Dutch job is safe

Doubting Dutchman Hans Van Breukelen has leaped to the defence of his PSV boss insisting: "Bobby's no bungler."

The straight-talking Eindhoven 'keeper felt his Dutch club had dropped a clanger when they appointed Bobby Robson as their new coach in the summer.

But, at a time when Robson is reported by the English Press to be under increasing pressure, Van Breukelen happily changes his tune as he delivers this massive vote of confidence.

The former Nottingham Forest favourite, an experienced Dutch international, says: "Bobby is a super coach who has the respect of ALL the players."

"The way he has approached the job in his first few months has impressed me immensely."

Such lavish praise contrasts starkly with the views of Van Breukelen before Robson's arrival at PSV.

He admits: "Before he came I have to confess I had serious doubts about him - not as a coach but because of his British background. I just didn't think things would work out."

"But now, some three months later, I can say I had it all wrong."

PSV's shock First Round European Cup-Winners' Cup exit at the hands of unfancied French club Montpellier, followed by a 3-1 League defeat by arch rivals Ajax, set the alarm bells ringing.

According to the English tabloids Robson, no stranger to criticism in his eight years as national boss, has become a laughing stock in Holland where his £250,000 job is on the line.

But Van Breukelen is at pains to point out that no-one is ridiculing Robson and he says: "We are right behind him."

"Bobby has been working on a new style for the team, not

English and not continental, but a mixture of the two.

"He wants us to play faster, more effective football and the way things are going we can certainly win the Dutch League by following Bobby's guidelines."

"His biggest problem so far has been injuries. Never in the history of the club has there been such a big injury crisis. At one stage seven of the 11 first team players were out of action with serious injuries."

"Of course, the defeat by Montpellier did put a little extra pressure on Bobby - but not as much as the English papers think. In any case, after all he has been through in his life, I am sure he can handle it."

'Danger'

"The players are happy with Robson and, as far as I am aware, so is the Managing Director. His job is not in danger."

PSV supremo Kees Ploegsma adds weight to Van Breukelen's argument and gives the English papers food for thought when he announces: "There is no pressure on Bobby. He has our complete support."

"We have never been critical of Bobby and we are right behind him. We rated him highly when we asked him to take the job ... and we still do."

Such a vote of confidence from a club's overlord would be viewed in England as the kiss of death ... but not, it appears, in Holland.

Van Breukelen, however, puts the situation into perspective with these friendly words of warning for the likeable Robson.

He says: "The pressure at a big club like PSV is as great as with a national team."

"The club has invested millions and millions of pounds in top class players over the last few years - people like Bosman, Romario, Koeman and Popescu - and when that sort of money is splashed out a coach knows he has to win something at the end of the season."

"Bobby has not had an easy start, it's true, and we are all disappointed to be out of Europe. But we still have the Dutch FA Cup and the League title to win, and we will ... with Bobby Robson in charge."

Speculation

Full of praise he may be for the former England boss, but Van Breukelen's own future at PSV is still the subject of great speculation.

He has been offered a new contract which will keep him at the club until 1993, but he has indicated that he would like to return to England when his current deal terminates at the end of the season.

"I have many fond memories of my time at Nottingham Forest and I would like to end my career in England," he says.

The 34-year-old 'keeper is Holland's most experienced player with 56 caps for his country - and he has no intention of hanging up his international gloves just yet.

"Peter Shilton and Dino Zoff both played until they were in their 40s and proved age is no barrier. I am certainly not too old to carry on playing at the highest level."

MUGGINS UNITED THE WORST TEAM IN THE WORLD

Chris Morris, the man chased out of England by the boo boys, is ready to return South.

The Celtic full-back has slapped in a transfer request and despite the hard times he received from the fans at Sheffield Wednesday when he was there, he is now convinced his future lies back in the Football League.

Morris, who went to Parkhead in 1987 as a fairly shy and unsure player, blossomed there and shot to international fame as part of the Republic of Ireland's European Championship shockers in 1988.

But now he's decided it's time to move on.

He says simply: "I feel I have to go back to England in order to progress any further."

Morris won't point the finger of blame at anyone for his sudden decision to leave Celtic, but injuries and inconsistent form have not helped.

There have also been rumours of a split between him and Billy McNeill and clearly he has not been happy for some time.

Says the 26-year-old defender: "There have been problems on and off the park this season and this is the right time to move on."

If he does quit Parkhead, Morris will be giving a vote of thanks to the Celtic fans who gave him confidence the boost he needed after his savage treatment at Hillsborough.

"I've been well received by the Celtic fans and they know how much that has meant to me," he says. "When the time comes for me to go, I'll let them know how much I appreciated them."

Morris agrees that whatever has happened this season, moving to Parkhead was the best move of his career. "I have learned a lot here and I'll go back to England a better player."

"I became an Irish international while at Celtic and the fact that both the club and myself were having a good season in 1988 helped to establish me in Jack Charlton's plans."

Despite playing in all Ireland's World Cup games in Italy, Morris is now under threat for the right-back spot from Manchester United's Dennis Irwin, but dismisses that as his reason for seeking a move.

"Dennis is a very good player, but I'm not worried about losing my international place," he says.

"I came close to creating a Premier Division record for successive appearances. I played 97 on the trot and would have broken the 100 record but for an appendix operation last year."

"I think that shows I've been consistent at Celtic."

EURO LOAD OF RUBBISH

Brits boob on night of shame

Jurgen Klinsmann slides in to beat Nigel Spink to score Inter's first goal.

The cream of the continent exposed the European dream of Britain's best for just what it is... a dream.

After the euphoria of the first-leg results, English and Scottish clubs alike came crashing down to earth with an almighty thud on a night of doom and gloom.

And it was at the hands of quality Italian opposition that the cruellest lessons were learned.

Both Aston Villa and Hearts took two-goal leads to Milan and Bologna, respectively, only to surrender the advantage amidst intimidating scenes of calamity and controversy.

Villa are still seething about the way they were 'cheated' by the gamesmanship of the calculating Italian giants Inter and the slipshod performance of a poor Soviet official.

But, while the arguments about Inter's third goal in particular rage on, the fact remains the same. Villa were no match for a Milan side sprinkled with world class stars rich in the ways of European competition.

The way Villa tried to defend a 2-0 lead amidst explosive scenes inside the San Siro Stadium was naivety at its most extreme. Former Villa boss Graham Taylor hit the nail on the head when he said: "They played too deep and threw it away. They want their backsides kicking."

From the moment dying swan Jurgen Klinsmann reduced the deficit as early as the sixth minute, Villa were under an Alamo-type siege they were never going to survive.

Even question marks against the killer goals by Berti and Bianchi cannot change the fact that Villa were out-thought and out-fought by a team, literally, in a different League.

It was a similar, sad story which had unfolded earlier in the day in Bologna where Hearts were crushed under a late onslaught and bowed out of the UEFA Cup by an aggregate score of 4-3.

Aberdeen fell to a late winner by Legia Warsaw's Krzysztof Iwanicki in the Cup-Winners' Cup, while on British soil Rangers (European Cup) and Dundee United (UEFA Cup) fared no better.

Graeme Souness' men had to settle for a 1-1 draw on the night and a 4-1 aggregate defeat by Red Star Belgrade while United were guilty of a massive capitulation at Tannadice.

A 4-0 home defeat (5-0 on aggregate) at the hands of Dutch club Vitesse Arnhem capped a miserable night for British clubs.

UNITED MARCH ON

Manchester United will fly a lone British flag when they resume Cup-Winners' Cup business next March.

They saved Britain from a complete European wipe-out by sweeping aside brave Wrexham - although their comfortable passage against a bunch of teenagers hardly eases the pain felt elsewhere.

Wrexham boss Brian Flynn was forced to pack his side with untried YTS youngsters, but they did him proud and United didn't have it all their own way.

The 2-0 victory (5-0 overall) didn't satisfy United manager Alex Ferguson on the night but at least he can spend the winter looking forward to a more glamorous Quarter-Final tie.

"It's a lovely feeling," he confesses. "The draw in December should give us a big name and that will keep us bubbling along nicely until March."

First-half goals by Mark Robins and Steve Bruce led to complacency in the United ranks and Fergie blasted them afterwards saying: "We stopped playing in the second-half and our performance was unfair to the fans. I am not going to tolerate players soft pedalling their way through matches."

Certainly, United's attitude must be better next March when they could be facing the likes of Barcelona, Sampdoria or Juventus in a money-spinning tie which could bring in as much as £750,000.

Wrexham 'keeper Mark Morris saves well from United's Mark Robins.

Leyton Orient are a Jekyll and Hyde team having won their first five home games –

Oxford's Paul Simpson ended his side's four-match run without a goal by scoring a hat-trick in just 16 minutes against Brighton – and then got a ticking off from manager Brian Horton for going for a fourth when he should have passed.

Tommy Tynan took his remarkable career tally to 301 goals when he hit a brace for Torquay in the recent 3-0 win over Carlisle. He scored his first ever goal for Swansea (on loan) 15 years ago!

Wimbledon, like the rest of the Football League, clearly don't like playing at Plough Lane either. Eight of their first 11 League points came from away fixtures.

Young Exeter midfielder Ben Rowe was sent-off 53 minutes into his side's 3-2 defeat at Fulham... without getting on the field. He was dismissed for a show of dissent from the dug-out.

Wolves' owner Sir Jack Hayward has revealed that the club rejected two official bids for Steve Bull during the summer.

Italian club Genoa tabled a £2.5 million bid for the England striker, with First Division Wimbledon offering considerably less.

Sir Jack says: "Having just bought the club for £2.1 million, it would have been easy to accept the £2.5 million offer, be in profit and leave the team to flounder as it will."

"The bids were on the table at the first board meeting after I bought the club, but we were not interested in selling. Instead, we were delighted to get Steve on an extended contract after the World Cup."

STARS OUT FOR SHILTON

Peter Shilton is to be honoured with a star studded testimonial match at White Hart Lane on Tuesday, December 18.

Shilton has never had a testimonial at club level so it was decided to honour his world record 125 international caps with a well deserved benefit.

Graham Taylor has agreed to pick an England side to take on a World Cup team which will be selected by former West German team manager Franz Beckenbauer.

England will field many of their World Cup stars including Paul Gascoigne and Gary Lineker and, hopefully, Bryan Robson.

Among the world stars who have agreed to play are German trio Lothar Matthaus, Andreas Brehme and Jurgen Klinsmann.

Beckenbauer says: "I have known Peter for many years and I hope we can provide a spectacular evening and a fitting tribute to a great goalkeeper."

Fan-tastic

England captain Gary Lineker has formed his own Fan Club.

Membership costs £9.95 per year for UK residents (£15 per year for overseas membership). Each member will receive a personal letter of welcome from Gary, eight newsletters a year and eight photographs of Gary.

There will also be regular competitions and among the prizes are tickets to watch Gary play and a chance to meet the man himself.

Anyone interested in joining should write to: The Official Gary Lineker Fan Club, 19 Charnwood Avenue, Westone, Northampton. NN3 3DX

Aston Villa boss Jozef Venglos has been named Barclays Bank Manager of the Month for October – the first foreigner to receive the award since it was introduced 21 years ago. Divisional awards went to Billy Bonds (West Ham), Alan Buckley (Grimsby) and Dave Smith (Torquay).

SMITH STAYS

Newcastle chairman Gordon McKeag has dismissed speculation suggesting that Kevin Keegan and Arthur Cox were being lined up as a managerial duo to replace Jim Smith.

Newcastle and Scottish Breweries, negotiating to become the club's main sponsors, were reported to want to take Keegan and Cox back to the club where they enjoyed such success.

But McKeag says: "This topic has certainly not been aired in the boardroom and I don't expect it to be."

"This sort of thing is deplorable at a time when everybody with the club's interests at heart should be supporting the manager."

GARY MCGINNIS

St. Johnstone

Date of birth: 21.10.63 ... married to June ... lives in bungalow at Invergowrie, near Dundee ... drives a Nissan Sunny

What was your debut?
I was with Dundee United in 1984. I was 20.

What is the best game you've ever seen?

When Dundee United beat Dundee City 4-1 in a 1984 cup tie in the New Murray Ground. It was a great game. Dundee United were the better team and they were very confident. It was a great game.

What was the last goal you saw?

Robert Wighton II. He scored a great goal. It was a great goal.

And the last book you read?

Pat Riley by James Oliver
Ray.

What's your favourite
food?

I like to eat a bit of everything.
I like to eat a bit of everything.
I like to eat a bit of everything.

Are you a good dresser?
I passed my test several times. I was off a bit. I was off a bit.
I was off a bit. I was off a bit.

What's your favourite
team?

My sister-in-law knitted me a big, heavy Icelandic-style jumper and I'm guaranteed to get stick whenever I wear it.

What's your favourite
team?

Scoring an own-goal against
Manchester United in a UEFA Cup tie at Tannadish which Dundee United won 3-2.

Which player did you like most as a boy?

Gentle winger Jimmy Johnston.
He was a great player. He was a great player. He was a great player.

Do your neighbours know you're a footballer?

I used to be a bit of a trouble maker. I used to be a bit of a trouble maker. I used to be a bit of a trouble maker.

Who is the most boring player at St. Johnstone?

Robert Wighton II. He scored a great goal. It was a great goal.

Which school did you attend?

I went to St. Johnstone High School. I went to St. Johnstone
High School. I went to St. Johnstone
High School.

Describe the first goal you scored.

You mean the first goal I scored in a game? I scored the first goal in a game. I scored the first goal in a game.

What is the toughest experience you've had?

When I was a boy, I was in a fight. I was in a fight. I was in a fight. I was in a fight.

Which player would you play in today?

Paul Gascoigne. There are so few genuine personalities in the game these days and though I've only seen him on the box, Gazza seems to be unique in terms of talent.

What's your favourite
team?

No, though my dad once came to see me. He came to see me.
He came to see me. He came to see me.

What is the weakest moment of your career?

I think my worst moment was when I was a boy. I was a boy. I was a boy.

CHELSEA's David Lee is in seventh heaven as he leaves seven Derby men rooted to the spot to head home at Stamford Bridge.

TONY Cottee's Everton career has taken more twists than a soap opera, but he believes he can fulfil his £2 million promise by playing it Howard's Way.

Little has gone right for Cottee since he broke the British transfer record in the summer of 1988 and pledged to score 30 goals a season for the Merseyside club. Injuries, illness, goal droughts and transfer demands have all contributed to his Mersey misery as Everton have slipped back into the shadows of Liverpool.

But the return of Howard Kendall has breathed new life into the ailing club – and given Cottee fresh cause for optimism.

Within days of Colin Harvey's inevitable dismissal as manager, Cottee found himself banished to the substitutes' bench – not for the first time – by caretaker boss Jimmy Gabriel.

And, while he appreciates that his first team place may not be guaranteed under the new Kendall-Harvey regime, he says: "Having been instantly dropped by Jimmy Gabriel I was pleased to hear of Howard's appointment.

'Opportunity'

"His arrival gives me the chance to re-establish myself in the first team and get my Everton career going again. My first couple of years at Goodison have been topsy-turvy to say the least but this is a great opportunity for me to start afresh.

"Howard, of course, may have different ideas about the role I have to play in the club's future, but hopefully this can be the turning point for me and Everton.

"When he was here before Everton were even better than Liverpool and that's where we hope he can take us again."

Cottee hopes a heart-to-heart discussion with the new Everton boss will reveal where his career is going after a traumatic start to the season.

A viral infection in the summer left the former West Ham striker feeling as though he was at 'death's door' and the club's disastrous start to the season did little to lift his spirits.

"It's been a very difficult time for everyone at the club, full of uncertainty and the despondency that goes with failure," he explains.

"We were all disappointed when Colin was sacked and the overall opinion of the players was that we had let him down.

"I know we've had our differences in the past, but I never lost respect for him. That's why I was delighted when he was brought back in."

The reunion of the Kendall-Harvey management team has been greeted with joy throughout Goodison – and not without a hint of surprise either.

TONY'S TURNING POINT?

"I was convinced, as were most of the players, that Joe Royle would be the next Everton manager," says Tony. "He also appeared to be the fans' choice.

"But we are all absolutely delighted that Howard is here and I'm sure he'll get a hero's welcome for his first home game on Sunday."

Everton take on Tottenham, Gazza and all, in ITV's latest live offering and Cottee intends to be in the thick of the action.

"Spurs are a great team to play against and I'm sure it's going to be an exciting game," he says. "I just hope I'm in the starting line-up.

"A convincing victory will show people we mean business and, while we've probably got too much ground to make up on Liverpool in terms of the title, at least we can set about restoring lost pride."

Howard's Mission of Mersey

The effects of Howard Kendall's theatrical return to the Everton hot seat are still being felt inside both Goodison Park and Maine Road – and the contrast in emotions couldn't be more dramatic.

While the Everton faithful are currently being swept along on a tide of euphoria following the homecoming of a modern-day Messiah, Manchester City fans are still in a state of deep shock as they mourn the loss of their 16th manager since the War.

Just when they thought the club had recaptured the stability which had made City great in the halcyon days under Joe Mercer, players and supporters alike have been plunged into another worrying period of uncertainty.

Dreams

Not so for their Goodison Park adversaries who are already dreaming of Championship success they once feared had been consigned to memory.

And it's all down to one man. In his first spell as Everton boss Howard Kendall achieved what all other First Division managers had failed to accomplish – parity with Liverpool. Two Championship triumphs in the space of three seasons are testimony to that.

And now, as then, Kendall's mission of Mersey remains the same. The prodigal son has returned to break the Liverpool stranglehold which has tightened since he left the club more than three years ago.

The appeal of the continent lured him away from Goodison in 1987 and when his reign in Spain with Athletic Bilbao ended, Maine Road provided the next stopping off point on his route back to Merseyside.

Home, as they say, is where the heart is and Kendall put his latest managerial move into perspective when he announced: "If City was a love affair, then Everton is a marriage.

"My heart has always been at Goodison Park after 14 years of football commitment with this club. I don't want to take anything away from City, but this place has always meant so much to me.

"I intend to get on with making Everton the club that it was when I left – the best in soccer.

"I am here to win the First Division Championship and make it a hat-trick of League titles for this particular management team."

The 'management team' in question turned out to be that of Kendall and Colin Harvey who was sacked as boss and then reinstated as number two to the new boss within a week.

It took true blue Harvey 'two and a half seconds' to accept his latest position. It's going to take the dynamic duo a lot longer than that to put Everton back on a par with their rivals at nearby Anfield.
